

Ten Thousand Comments, Zero Follow-Up Action

5 min read

A heated online debate about bike lanes generated thousands of posts and shares. However, the discussion never turned into a proposal or a concrete decision process, leaving many residents feeling powerless.

Politics Isn't for People Like Me': Neighbours Stop Talking About Public Issues

10 min read

Residents say they rarely discuss local decisions with friends or neighbours anymore; most political content comes via polarising social media feeds. Many feel both disconnected from each other and powerless to shape what happens.

Public Consultation Buried in Pages of Legal Jargon

8 min read

A public consultation on new EU rules is released only in a few languages and written in dense legalese. Local organisations say the document is so complex that ordinary residents cannot understand what they are being asked to comment on.

Experts Take the Floor, Citizens Take the Back Row at Policy Forum
